Alexander Kuhn obtained his Master degree in chemistry from TU Munich (1991), and his PhD from the University of Bordeaux (1994). After his post-doc at Caltech (1996), he was appointed in the same year as an Assistant Professor at the University of Bordeaux and then in 2000 as a Full Professor, working at the Institut of Molecular Science. Since 2015 he is also Adjunct Professor at VISTEC, Thailand, and more recently (2020) Distinguished Professor of the "Outstanding Talent Program" at Henan University, China. He is a senior member of the Institut Universitaire de France, distinguished senior member of the French Chemical Society and Fellow of the International Society of Electrochemistry (ISE). He is the recepient of several honors, including a fellowship from the Alexander-von-Humboldt foundation, the Grand Prix Süe of the French Chemical Society, the Katsumi Niki Prize of ISE and the science medal in silver of CNRS.